Polices for Group Cooking Classes

1. Minimum registration deadline. If fewer than 8 participants have registered for your cooking class by 2 business days before the class is to be held, we will email you notification. If the minimum of 8 participants has still not been reached by 1 business day before your class is scheduled, we reserve the right to cancel the class.

2. Promotion is the responsibility of the requestor. Once the class date and menu are confirmed, we will send you a message with detailed information for you to share with your group members, including menu description, date/time/place, payment instructions if applicable, and class registration link. It is YOUR RESPONSIBILITY to get the word out about your class and to send reminders to ensure your group members sign up and participate.

3. Fees are non-refundable. If your class must be cancelled due to low enrollment, any fees paid will be contributed to our Food Security Fund.

4. Unfilled classes will be opened for individual sign up. If the class max of 16 students has not been reached by the day of your scheduled class, we will post an invitation on our social media channel inviting any students interested to join.
